

Changes

The view is ever changing and so is our lives cause those who run with scissors they swapped them with knives

The thoughts about the future they vanished in the air the progress changed its course now it just can't be fair

Changes,
we thought the path was laid down long ago
Changes, the view is different now when you look at it

We reach for golden ages it's just within a grasp the freedom we had fought for we thought it would last

What we held in our hands then was blown to smithereens we watch it fade away on the computer screen

Changes,
we thought the path was
laid down long ago
Changes, the view is different
now when you look at it

Our life is ever changing and so is the world cause those who keep on dancing will end with a twirl

The thoughts of cosmic justice is all we can grasp and karma's only working on grand cosmic scale

Changes,
we thought the path was
laid down long ago
Changes, the view is different
now when you look at it

Changes,
we thought the path was
laid down long ago
Changes, the view is different
now when you look at it